MACON, Ga. (WGXA) -- The Rescue Mission of Middle Georgia was treated to a visit on Thursday from modern country artist Steven Cade, making a stop in Macon as part of his Giving Guitars Tour.

The artist partnered with Brent Yates, founder and author of The Gravity of Up, to donate guitars to inspire those in need and raise awareness of the importance of music.

The Giving Guitars Tour visits shelters all across America who offer housing to families and youth experiencing homelessness.

With each facility visited, Cade interacts with the residents, holds live performances, and donates a guitar.
